

CALIFORNIA LOCAL GOVERNMENT'S TRUSTED ADVISOR

Delivering Technology and Business Process Transformation

Long before digital transformation became an industry buzzword, the SDI Team has been guiding local government clients through technology change.

SDI's IT strategic planning holistically assesses an organization's key technology assets, policies and procedures, business processes and governance structures to guide it in the effective planning, procurement, implementation, and management of current and future technology investments and resources. SDI's approach leverages proven methodologies, while providing the flexibility to adapt to each of our clients' specific tools and needs.

SDI's IT strategic planning is designed to make our local government clients successful, by:

- Aligning agency priorities and technology investments
- Accessing your cybersecurity vulnerabilities and identify actions to minimize risks
- Evaluating current and future technology and support resource needs
- Balancing department service needs with available resources
- Identifying opportunities to implement technology to improve productivity and customer service
- Creating a tactical technology roadmap to guide short-term and long-term actions

With offices in Northern and Southern California, SDI Presence LLC (formerly NexLevel Information Technology, Inc.) has served over 200 local government agencies and has delivered over 100 IT Assessments/Strategic Plans throughout West Coast. SDI offers exceptional local California senior consultants, with long resumes of municipal/financial leadership in local government and deep functional expertise in departmental business/operational processes and associated workflows, controls, compliance, and challenges.
